

QUEEN OF THE UNITED STATES

By Derry Brownfield

Joan Veon has spent the past decade covering International and United Nation meetings around the world. She has phoned in live broadcast reports from all corners of the earth and is a regular guest on my show concerning world events. She is a financial advisor and heads up "THE WOMEN'S INTERNATIONAL MEDIA GROUP, INC." She is the author of "Prince Charles the Sustainable Prince and The United Nations' Global Straightjacket." You can visit her website at www.womensgroup.org. Joan has thoroughly researched England's Royal Family and its ties to the Canadian government. She recently published an article titled, "The North American Union; Does the Queen of Canada Become the Queen of the United States?" Her article is much longer and detailed than we can use in the CHRONICLE, so I have excerpted a few of her comments.

Canada is America's largest trading partner – surpassing our trade with Japan. Twenty-three percent of American exports are sent to Canada and more than 80% of Canada's exports come to us. We import 80% of Canada's wood, paper, and pulp and 17% of their oil and 18% of their natural gas. We share energy grids all across the northern borders. New England obtains most of its power from Quebec.

The NASDAQ Stock Exchange owns 30% of the London Stock Exchange and there are plans to erase the barriers between the Canadian and American stock exchanges. Recently the US adopted the UK style of securities regulation. The currencies between Canada, the US and Mexico are becoming one. Over the past 46 years, America has been linked to Canada through our joint military efforts through the North American Aerospace Defense Command-NORAD. In 2002 the two countries established the Bi-national Planning Group to develop joint plans for maritime and land defense and for military support to civil authorities in times of emergency. There are plans to move ahead with a common ballistic missile defense system. Under the new partnership called "Common Security, Common Prosperity, A New Partnership in North America," the US and Canada will cooperate to expand business opportunities, protect the environment, improve intelligence-sharing and cross-border law enforcement, counter-terrorism, increase critical infrastructure such as transportation, energy and communications networks, and renew the NORAD agreement.

Canada's political structure appears to be like ours but it isn't. There is an executive level which consists of the Queen, the Queen's representative and her Privy Council. Canada is a parliamentary democracy and a constitutional monarchy with Queen Elizabeth II as its head of state and Queen of Canada with a federal system of parliamentary government. The governmental structure is made up of the Executive Branch, which is comprised of; the executive (the Queen), the Governor General, The Queen's representative in Canada who formally appoints the prime minister and their cabinet; the Queen's Privy Council, the Prime Minister and the Cabinet; the legislature and the Judiciary. The Prime Minister and his Cabinet are all sworn into the Queen's Privy Council for Canada and become MINISTERS OF THE CROWN.

The Armed Forces of Canada swear allegiance to the Canadian Crown and not to the sitting and transient government. It is the Queen who is the Commander in Chief of the Canadian Armed Forces. The Queen through the Governor General also has the power to dissolve Parliament. The Queen's official title is "Elizabeth the Second by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom, Canada and Her other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith." While the Prime Minister is considered head of government, it is the Queen who is head of state. The Commonwealth today has 53 sovereign states with Queen Elizabeth II as head of the Commonwealth.

We Americans would be extremely naïve if we thought that Britain was a good loser over the outcome of the American Revolution. There is a very powerful group of men whose money runs the world both in Britain and in the US. These Pilgrims swear allegiance to the Crown and have been working since 1902 to bring America back under British rule. Maybe we need to ask if our President, who is distantly related to the Queen, is also one of these men. It appears he does not swear allegiance to the Constitution. Perhaps NAFTA was the beginning of a bloodless coup and the Common Security and Prosperity Partnership (SPP) sealed the merger between the US, Canada and Britain. Just maybe the Queen of Canada is indeed the Queen of the United States!

It is time for TRUE AMERICANS TO WAKE UP! **
